a, and much much more. Here is a list of posts that should help you in your decision process. How to deal with back pain from lying on one side Back pain relief for people with sciatica Back pain relief for pregnant women How to relieve back pain and lower back pain How to relieve lower back pain How to treat back pain without medicine How to treat lower back pain without surgery How to relieve neck pain There are many different types of back pain. Know the one that is affecting you now. Once you identify the exact source of your back pain you can begin to focus on what is working and what is not working. If the pain isn't getting any better with physical therapy and/or a pain management center then it is time to get your doctor involved. In some cases surgery may be necessary to get rid of the pain. A pain management center can help you with this.Q: Dapper.NET: Optimize using DapperContext with multiple databases With Dapper.NET, I can now get the return type of a stored procedure with the following line `StoredProcedureInfoResult data = connection.Query(sql, new { parameters = parameters });` This is really nice for executing raw SQL with stored procedures, which is my most common use case. However, what I would like to do now is to execute multiple stored procedures, either one or all of them depending on a flag, and return the result of the executed stored procedure into the same data type. So far, my code is: `switch (params.Type) { case StoredProcedureType.GetAll: data = connection.Query(sql, new { parameters = parameters, strategy = Dapper.SqlStrategy.Multiple, multi = true }); break; case StoredProcedureType.GetOne: data = connection.Query(sql, new { parameters = parameters, strategy = Dapper.SqlStrategy.Single, single = true });` 82157476af
